

My Contact Name & Details -

Submission may be made public provided my name and contact details above remain confidential.

Name on public submission (if required) shall be

Submission - New ACMA powers to combat misinformation and disinformation

Democracy is based on an exchange of ideas, and social medium is the new town square. Without freedom of expression, our country is condemned to dictatorship or communism.

Recent experience of Covid -19 disaster illustrates the importance of open and free exchange of ideas.

Historically true independent journalism of the main stream media, offered a small degree of freedom of expression, over an extended period this independence has disappeared in Australia (and world wide) as media ownership has contracted to very few people and independent thinking investigative journalists have been sacked.

It was during Covid even parliamentary speeches were removed from various social medium platform as their speeches differed from the government narrative.

Recently the term “malformation” has been used increasingly. A term that is best described “information that is true but is inconvenient to the government.”

Fact checkers, silenced many comments on social media, saying that it was disinformation, yet those same comments have latter to be proven as true.

There are many examples of information that so called fact checks, said were false, but later shown to be correct.

So who determines what is correct is it a Government department called the “Ministry of Truth” who will correct any thing that is not in line with government decisions of the day. Or maybe the arbiters of truth are a so called independent organisation financed through the back door by companies, organisations or individuals who will gain significant advantage from policy decisions.

Democracy allows for differing views, it is this variety of ideas and experience that create and maintain a strong nation. How can independent thinking be expressed in todays world that is being increasingly censored.

During the past few years we have experienced many, many, cases of social media censorship, so why are current changes being proposed. Additional government powers will effectively enable a government of the day to silence any one who has a different view point to the Government.

There is very strong legislation in Australia protecting Whistle blowers, so why is this relevant, If government shut down social media to silence critics then the modern day town square has been silenced, South Australia has already banned public protests, so how can citizens blow the whistle on government failures. Historically if citizens have a grievance that is not being processed, it would be revealed through main stream or social media. Now main stream media can easily be bought out by government or corporations, shutting down of social media by government will remove the last way citizens have a chance of making others aware of government failures.

The last few years represents the greatest failures of our government in Australian history, influenced by World Health Organisation (WHO) and World Economic Forum (WEF) policies being in lock step, to create a one world government by 2030, many laws have been broken. The courts are gradually revealing these failures. Recently the  was found guilty of lying to the Supreme Court’s Chief Justice, questioning the integrity of the court system. This is just one of many cases currently in court system that may not have happened with out public comment on social media. Many police charges placed during covid have been dropped recently, as they have been found to have no place in law. Causing many people undue stress, wasting precious government resources. If there in no awareness through social media, of this abuse of power how will citizens be informed.

The proposed changes are being promoted as some thing to protect the public from hate speech, actually the reverse is true, these changes will make it possible for governments to hide from the people they are supposed to represent. This is part of the bigger worldwide plan to silence all critics, making it easier to create one world government. As just like during Covid similar changes to these proposed changes are being made by many nations who are under the spell of WHO & WEF. When is Australian government going to act to retain a democracy rather than continue a path towards communism.

-----End of submission-----