AVIATION GREEN PAPER

While the words around the intent in improving access for people with disabilities are encouraging, there is clear evidence that the aviation sector still has a way to go to provide equity of access and removing discrimination. Despite previous submissions discrimination still exists.

Reference is made to 'a reform process to modernise Transport Standards' but no details, no timeframe and no obvious action have been provided.

Reference is also made to the Transport Standards (DSAPT) being reviewed every five years but no action is taken to update them despite the public input/comment and the need to update them.

There is a lack of confidence that this paper's review is nothing more than an administrative exercise with little tangible outcome or benefit to the users.

Yours faithfully
