

I think it would be really cool if there was an Air Traffic Management system that worked seamlessly between civil and military agencies, using the most advanced digital interfaces and facilities. That would be cool.