

My comment is to highlight the issue that Sydney CBD does not have a dedicated helipad.

A helipad could be located in various locations that would minimize noise issues such as: Garden Island, a Floating platform in the harbour somewhere or top of a building either in the CBD or Darling Harbour.

A helipad that only allowed multi-engine helicopters would satisfy safety concerns as these helicopters have redundancy systems including two or more engines, dual or triple electrical systems and dual hydraulic systems.