

Australia Post has been one of The Big Issue's longest standing and most valued partners, stretching over 26 years since The Big Issue's inception in Australia. As a result, the Australia Post Brand has become synonymous with The Big Issue. Australia Post have supported The Big Issue in numerous ways and in-turn, made a direct positive impact into the lives of people experiencing homelessness, marginalisation and disadvantage. Some of the ways in which Australia Post support The Big Issue is by acting as distribution point nationally for vendors to purchase magazines from Australia Post outlets, providing annual employment to The Women's Workforce through by assisting with the Santa mail program and subscribing to magazines for staff, packed by the women, volunteering at events such as vendor breakfasts and the community street soccer program and just recently, providing space at the head office in Melbourne for vendors to meet each fortnight at the release of The Big Issue magazine. Australia Post are an integral part of our community and we cannot thank them enough for their incredible support of The Big Issue.