

I am happy to have my submission published.

I have only lived in the area for 8 weeks and am shocked at the abysmal connection available. Even if someone calls & leaves a message because the call won't even ring through the voicemails left are ineligible but the person calling doesn't know that & thinks you have received their message. People say they call & nothing even registers on our end. At weekends & public holidays it is worse as there are many trying to use the service & you have even less chance of making or receiving calls. The lack of service also affects internet use on phones so you cannot use email or messenger to contact anyone. I am paying for phone & internet services at the same price as people in the suburbs for less usage. I am assuming if i have a heart attack or snake bite i better hope i am within service range....
