

We have been living for the last 4 years with no mobile service at all. We pay Telstra for a mobile service which we can only use when away from home. We live on a small rural property without the security if something happens to one of us on the property cannot call for help. We are both in our 70s. I have contacted Telstra who say they can put up a tower for $1800 which as self funded retirees cannot afford also contacted a private operator who was not interested as could not get any form of reception on our property at the moment feel we are paying Telstra for a service they cannot provide hoping some solution can be found
