Subject: A Submission to the Inquiry into the Competitive Neutrality of the National Broadcasters

To those reading,

while I respect those charged with undertaking this unnecessary inquiry into aspects of our publically subsidised national broadcasters I despise the motives of those who have caused it to be established as they are, when stripped of sophistry concocted by their political enemies, commercial rivals and those paid by either for partisan advocacy, purely self-servingly venal, fuelled by greed, envy and malice.

Greed from those who wish to buy it at a fraction of its worth.
Envy from those who cannot match its broad appeal and excellence.
Malice from those it has exposed to occasional well-deserved ridicule.

Cui bono if the ABC is sold off? Not the Australian public.

Please double my contribution to our publicly funded broadcasters to the giddy largesse of 10 cents per day and deny the dreams of the social jackals seeking its demise.

best regards,

Hugh Adamson
