
James Biasetto

My name is James Biasetto, I am a graduate of The Victorian College of the Arts where I studied acting. Since then I have worked across film and television also spending periods touring educational shows and theatre. Having more screen opportunities is vital for me to develop and grow my craft. I want to work here, I have a new baby and I want to be able to work in Australia where we can also rely on support from family. The pull to work overseas has been the main focus of many in our industry for a long time, but I want to work and tell the stories of Australians. We have a rich and vibrant history, sometimes painful, sometimes joyous, and getting to reflect on what makes us us is a hope and dream for my career going forward. However, at this time, remaining in the industry any way I can is proving challenge enough. And I'm one of the lucky ones.

More content quotas and productions incentives are a no brainer. Creating jobs, building the economy, and developing skilled workers. Win win win.
