
Rita Carmody

Freelance costume designer

I am a costume designer. I have worked across film, television and children's television. It is essential that we as a country continue to have shows made that represent us and tell our stories. Content quotas creates jobs and makes sure this happens.

It is also essential that our children grow up hearing their accents on tv and seeing people that are like them represented. A society that supports the arts is a country that will celebrate itself and it's stories. The arts are crucial for strengthening cultural identity.

The arts can help a country grow if it is supported.

I wish for my submission to be anonymous: No

I wish for my submission to be private: No

This submission has been lodged via the Media, Entertainment & Arts Alliance.