In a lot of respects we are

But when it comes to pricing on Cars we are the unlucky country

Have a colleague in the USA recently purchased a 2013 Mercedes SL63 for $175,000.00

Current price in Australia for the same car is $369,900

Even taking into account the population exchange rate etc

He can buy two and still has change left over

If the laws were changed to allow imports of these vehicles it would open up the market and prices would be reduced .

More cars would be sold it would create jobs.
